
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Exposure One Awards Honors Bill Felter in its 2025 Nature Photography Contest

The Exposure One Awards has announced the winners of its 2025 Nature Photography Contest.

This year's winners, including Bill Felter, have shared exceptional photographic work that uses monochrome to reveal the emotional depth, structure, and quiet power of the natural world.

Selected from submissions by photographers worldwide, the 2025 winners demonstrate extraordinary mastery of contrast, composition, and visual storytelling. Rather than stripping imagery down, these photographs show how black and white can heighten meaning, bringing forward texture, form, atmosphere, and feeling in ways color often cannot.

"This year's entries demonstrate photographic excellence and a deep engagement with our natural world," said the Exposure One Awards team. "Nature becomes both subject and metaphor, expressing resilience, impermanence, and our enduring relationship with the wild."

Please join us in congratulating Bill Felter for receiving the following honors at the 2025 Nature Photography Contest:

Honorable Mention Wild Portraits

"Silent Sentinel"

About the Exposure One Awards:

Here at Exposure One, we believe that a black and white palette is where the medium of photography comes to life. Our goal is to celebrate the timeless, eternal nature of the monochrome image through the vivid photography of our global community.

Title:

"Silent Sentinel"

Category:

Wild Portraits

Award:

 Honorable Mention